

PMP exam result comes in a quite a different form than of most exams. The PMP Exam result does not show percentage or grades, rather it assigns the following words as score for your understanding of each Process Group

Proficient - It indicates that your understanding is above the average level.

Moderately Proficient - It indicates that your understanding is of average level.

Below Proficient - It means that your understanding of the Process Group is below the average level.

This is how your knowledge of PMBOK is described in your PMP Exam Scorecard. Although it is difficult from this to understand how much of the Process Group you really understand or what percentage of the questions you answered right, you can at least have an idea from this that whether you are average, below average or above average in each Process Group.
